Now We Understand

Today, I must feel somewhat like the preacher who expounds the "good way" Sunday after Sunday to the only people who don't need the sermon, namely: Those present. For it is they who have listened before and who have understood what is right and have practiced it.

Our recent election coupled with some oral complaints and critical telephone calls convinces me that town administrators figuratively sit in the seat of the preacher. Those who care to know, find out. They either read the directions or they ask. There are others who wouldn't be affected until it happened to them. They are the selfish. There are the trusting souls who believe their administrators are responsible and with this faith they seldom complain. You can never register their strength, or weakness, because there are no indicators.

I use this preface to reinstitute confidence in those who already have it, to stir those who are too apathetic, and to incite those who are frustrated and complain.

Some time ago, an open town meeting accepted the vote of any legal resident. That type of government is "pure democracy." For one reason or another, it was decreed that this institution was not functional and a change was considered. Everyone had an opportunity to decide on that change through referendum. And subsequently it was so voted that 180 citizens, more or less, would represent all of the people. It is your prerogative to decide who they "will be", but it is theirs to decide what they "will do." I might add that a real conscientious representative will sound out his constituency, but he is not obligated to pursue their individual wishes. Please be reimpessed that these town meeting members are the people. They are legally ALL of the people. They will make, with few exceptions, ALL of the decisions. If you are going to find fault, then find fault with yourself, because they are you.

Now my point is 'are you shut off?' — so called, if you are not a town meeting member. The answer is NO. You may be heard orally on the town meeting floor. You may write your suggestions to your representatives or you have the power of the same type of referendum which changed your town meeting system.

It may be somewhat of an isolated case, but I am thinking of the family who would change the dog leash law because their dog was caught. They allowed him to run only a short time each day. Any dog should be allowed that privilege. He, perhaps, never left the yard, but they admitted they never followed him. He must have been picked up near home by the spying dog officer, but actually, according to record, he was detected a mile from his own home. The owner's alibi was that all dogs run loose, the school house steps are crowded with them each morning, and if they can't catch them, then why do they catch mine? I want the law rescinded, what can I do?

The same type of example could be written about the family whose rubbish was the only can on the street which wasn't "picked up." Why were they singled out as the guilty ones? Then investigation discloses, it was not household rubbish and none has contracted to pick up other than this.

What is the answer? Do you change the rules for the squeaking few? If you did this, you would eventually "rule" yourself out. The preacher preaches every Sunday and I assume he expects to reassure those present and to anticipate they will spread the gospel through their circumsstantial influence. In writing this article, I can expect only the same results.

We, in administration are willing to listen and when there is enough justification in change, then change will result. The human frailty in the whole process is that we procrastinate too many times and expect that those who "go to church" will take care of all of us.

George L. Reynolds, Selectman

The Fable Of The Fleas

And it came to pass that two young fleas fell in love, and after a short courtship, married and settled down. They found a large, good-natured and inactive dog for a home.

Theirs was truly an ideal life. Food, shelter and heat were provided. There was a housing unit in every wrinkle. Life was sweet and easy. All they did was eat, sleep and multiply.

Freedom from want and fear had been attained, and they and their offspring enjoyed the abundant life.

But the patient old dog, sore and unappreciated, grew weak and weary. Unable any longer to support the hungry and rapidly multiplying non-productive population, he finally staggered off into the woods and died.

Consternation reigned among the fleas. They held meetings, protesting that the economic system had let them down. Some even threatened to vote for the other party. There was talk of suing the old dog for lack of cooperation.

Many of those panicky parasites perished on the spot. Others, bitter in spirit, trudged off into the cruel world and died by the roadside, trying to thumb a ride on another dog. None thought of shifting for themselves.

Now the moral of this little story is that if too many people depend on society, industry or government to look after them, to provide them with security, they may end in want and distress amid the wreckage of a nation.

Men must never forget that there is no substitute for self-reliance, individual striving and thrift to provide for their future needs.

Three Promotions Note Westbank's Growth

Three promotions at Western Bank and Trust Company (West Springfield) have been announced by William A. Franks, Jr., president. Two persons have been named assistant treasurers while the third has been made manager of Westbank's Feeding Hills branch.

Mrs. Robert M. House, formerly savings and discount manager at the bank's main office, and Warren L. Gentry, formerly Feeding Hills branch manager, have been named assistant treasurers. Named to succeed Gentry as branch manager is Francis H. Dionne, formerly assistant branch manager.

Mrs. House joined Westbank in 1964 as a teller, became vault teller in 1965, then successively was promoted to bookkeeping and to savings and loan department manager. Before that she held jobs in the secretarial and bookkeeping fields with various out-of-state firms.

She has received a two-year certificate in secretarial sciences from Mary Washington College and is presently taking American Institute of Banking courses. She is former recording secretary of Junior League of Springfield, and is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club of West Springfield, and the American Institute of Banking.

Gentry joined Westbank in August, 1965 as head teller. He was promoted to the discount department, then to operations manager. He was named branch manager of Feeding Hills last November. Gentry who resides in Agawam, was born in Springfield, graduated West Springfield High School, and attended Northampton Commercial College.

He is a member of the West Springfield-Agawam Lodge of Elks and the American Institute of Banking. He has served as chairman of the Agawam cancer drive and has worked with the United Fund, YMCA sustaining membership drive, and the Easter Seal campaign.

Dionne, who had been assistant manager of the Industrial Park branch of First Bank and Trust Company, also was born in Springfield and graduated Cathedral High School before attending American International College and Western New England College. An army veteran, he received a diploma from the Adjutant General's School of Finance and took U. S. Armed Forces Institute courses in business administration.

Dionne is organist of the West Springfield - Agawam Lodge, BPOE; a chartered member and committeeman of Boy Scout Troop 4 in Indian Orchard; a member of West Springfield-Agawam Kiwanis Club, and the American Institute of Banking. He resides in Indian Orchard.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By BILL CHIBA

What good is the law if the law is not enforced? The following facts are from John Marsman, Savage Arms PR official.

Shooting sportsmen have long contended, in their opposition to gun registration and licensing laws, that the lawful owner of firearms, not the criminal suffers most of the penalty.

They have pointed out that persons bent upon committing crimes while in illegal possession of a gun are not apt to be concerned about this illegality when the criminal act involved carries a more severe penalty. Neither are they going to register guns prior to using them illegally.

Two cases of gun possession violations came to light this past fall that illustrate the point. One involved the arrest of a Wyoming gun collector in Denver, Colo., on charges of violating the Gun Control Act of 1968. The other involved the arrest of a suspect in Detroit, Mich., on charges of possession and sale of marijuana.

In the drug case, investigating officers found a sawed-off shotgun and a 38 caliber revolver in addition to the marijuana cache. The fact that the suspect was not charged with violation of the National Firearms Act (passed in 1968) has created considerable controversy between Michigan sportsmen and law enforcement officials.

The Wyoming gun collector apparently had failed to comply with portions of the Gun Control Act of 1968. The collector had set up his firearms display at a show in Denver when officers of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division made the arrest and confiscated 167 guns valued at $3,816.50. They subsequently returned 84 antique pieces which are exempt under the law.

Granted, the man should have known the law and acted accordingly. His mistake could cost him a five-year prison term and $5,000 on each of the three counts.

On the other hand, the drug suspect, in violating another federal law which prohibits possession of unregistered weapons such as sawed-off shotguns, didn't have to worry about breaking the law regarding guns.

That's the way it's been with gun laws. We've had them for the last 30 years. Trouble is, they haven't been enforced as rigidly as they should be. So now we have more and more gun laws that are enforced less and less.

When will the gun law hypocrisy cease? Not until the lawmakers realize that crime is a social problem, not a gun problem, and act accordingly.

HOWDY NEIGHBOR

By BOYD PIERCE

The column this week is for men.

Hold on to your wife because she will improve with age. Some things don't improve much with age but wives are exceptions. The longer they are married, the better person they become. Of course this is not true in all cases but it is in most.

A 10 year old car is about ready for the junk yard. Its gloss is gone, it creaks and squeaks, its performance is faulty and it costs too much to have it overhauled. Some men think wives are like that and they want to get a new model. But they are wrong.

Every year she gets better and better and more useful to her husband. After 15 or 20 years, she may need an occasional repaint job but she is certainly well worth it. After 25 years a wife becomes an indispensable woman. A wise husband then begins to treat her as a member of the family. He even quits insisting that she salute him whenever he comes into the room.

A mature wife has a lot of advantages over the young flighty bride. She may not look as glossy but she has more under the hood. Her feet get tired as soon as yours do but she doesn't demand to be taken out every other night. The buttons she sews on stay on longer. When she occasionally has to carry out the garbage she doesn't make a federal case out of it. She no longer yells about going home to mother if you overdo anything. Her biggest threat is "I'll tell your doctor on you." The meals she fixes don't taste like a misprint in an Armenian cook book. The old girl knows which dishes make you happy and which give you heartburn. She no longer whines, "you never listen to me." Instead, now and then, she'll even listen to you.

Yes, it takes a lot of time, trouble and understanding for a husband to take a flighty young bride and turn her into man's greatest masterpiece. A perfect wife nobly planned.

But in what more rewarding manner can a fellow spend his years?

AROUND THE LODGE
Our Junior Gov. and November Activity Chairman, George Gebo wishes to express his most heartfelt "Thanks" to all those who stepped forward to help him (Pancake Breakfast, Harvest Shuffle, and District 5 meeting) in the absence of his wife, Terry, who is in the hospital. He wishes special thanks to Anna and Bib Bissonnette, Ethel and Ernie Du蒙, Earl Chisholm, Ann and Ted Waterman, Frank and Lil Smith, Dan and Mary Sweet and Mike and Shirley Fydenkevez.

Junior Past Gov. Bissonnette is now a "Life Member" in the Mohawk Legion #198 of the Moose as announced by Aubrey C. Reid, Herder of Greenfield, Mass.

At the District 5 meeting held Saturday, Nov. 29, at our Lodge, the men discussed scouting, baseball, leadership and the support of Civic Affairs. We are greatly in need of Moose Volunteers to take part in these plans. WE WANT YOU TO HELP... You'll be helping yourself as well. After the meeting we had delicious food and delightful music but we would have wished for a larger representation from the other Lodges.

YULETIDE - 1969 (E.C.B.)
Christmas brings two-fold happiness to our children at Mooseheart and our oldsters at Moosehaven. It is both a sacred and joyous season with spiritual values and holiday excitement.

It is much more than the unwrapping of gifts and special menus plus the overall atmosphere of good will and the great hope of "peace on earth."

The basics for all this comes from the dedicated men and women of the Moose and the glory of our 82 years of existence as a major fraternal society.

Therefore YOU can feel the satisfaction of being a most solid benefactor of our two symbolic homes. Because of this, Christmas should mean a bit more to you and yours.

Many of the thousands of visitors to Mooseheart and Moosehaven often say "It looks as if Christmas is everyday here." That's almost true for I'm sure all of us want the very best for our specific charges — in both places.

To me one of the portions of our beautiful ritual "One For All And All For One" just about

NEWS FOR VETS

Bigger checks for approximately 168,000 widows are due in January, Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, announced today.

Signed by the President on Oct. 27, 1969, a new law (PL 91-46) authorizes increases for most widows of servicemen and veterans who are eligible for dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC).

DIC payments, Johnson explained, are authorized for widows of servicemen and veterans who died on or after Jan. 1, 1957, of service connected causes.

The new legislation does not affect payments to survivors receiving compensation under laws that preceded the DIC program.

New DIC rates provide $167 monthly for the widow of the lowest ranking enlisted man compared to a minimum of $134 at present. Similar increases are provided for eligible widows of other enlisted men and officers.

Effective Dec. 1, the increase will show up first in checks received in January. This increase is automatic and no application is needed.

Widows with minor children will get an extra $20 per month per child under the legislation. With few exceptions, they get nothing extra now. Forms for making application for children's allowances will be mailed to all widows automatically, Johnson said.

DIC payments have been tied to military pay through a complex formula. In raising DIC rates, Congress discarded the formula and provided a table of payments based on pay grade.

DIC recipients who are patients in nursing homes, or who are helpless or blind to the point that they need regular aid and attendance of another person, may receive an extra $50 per month under the law.

New rates of payment are shown on the attached table alongside minimum and maximum payments in each pay grade under the old formula.

Grade	Rate	new Scale	present range of payments	Mini.	Max

My Beat — A.H.S.

By Joseph Della-Giustina, Jr.

There is a very important issue confronting the citizens of Agawam which has been procrastinated for many years: a teen center for the youth of Agawam. The Agawam Citizens' Organization (ACO) has had several meetings to try to proceed with plans to develop a Teen Center for our town.

There were more adults than teen-agers who attended these meetings. This lack of interest from the teen-agers has caused me to devote most of my column to the Teen Center project. We need more support and ideas from the teen-agers of Agawam because they, not the adults, will be the people to use the center. The two groups must work together in order to produce and maintain a place for the youth to use and enjoy.

A suggested site for the Center is the property at Feeding Hills Center on Springfield St., previously used as a chicken store. I met with some teen-agers who thought that this site is too far from the homes of the majority of teen-agers. It is a good distance from the Agawam Center where the teen-agers used to congregate. So we finally found a good location which is an unoccupied, large old house on Main St. near Route 57. This house also has a large parking area, a place to play football, baseball, and is located near the majority of teen-agers. If anyone is interested in working for a Teen Center, they can contact me at 736-6050.

Word was received from the Don Currons that they are enjoying some of the scenery and nightspots in Las Vegas. From the International Hotel, we hear the food, shows and decor are out of this world...including the prices.

NATIONAL HOME

One of those small acts of kindness that makes the world better is buying VFW National Home seals says Emily Dias, chairman. Each attractive seal adds a touch of color to your message but it also carries a message of love. Each seal we use shows we care for the children who have been delivered into our charge. Each and every child is important but the children at the Home are our special responsibility. Why? Because they are the children of the very veterans we are ORGANIZED TO ASSIST.

By now you will have received them in the mail so please do not forget to send your contribution to the National Home (an addressed envelope is enclosed with the seal). Order as many additional seals as you can as they are designed for year-round use, be-not married. Contact your social security office immediately with your deceased wife's social security number, the children's birth certificates and wife's death certificate.

Q. I am 20 years old and was seriously injured in an auto accident last week. My doctor says I will be laid up for at least a year. Someone told me I can draw social security benefits. I thought you had to be 65. I worked after school since I was 16.

A. One out of every 4 people who receive social security benefits are under age 62. Disability benefits are paid to millions of young Americans who cannot work. Get in touch with your social security office and they will help you with your claim. No benefits are payable for the first six months of disability, but it's a good idea to apply early so your first check will be on time.

Q. My wife is disabled with multiple sclerosis. I am not yet retired. Is there any social security benefit she can receive?

A. If your wife worked under the social security program, she may be eligible for disability benefits on her own record. Look into this right away. Contact your social security office with her social security number.

Q. For the past year, my husband has been able to work only a few hours a day because of a severe heart condition. His company still pays him his full salary. Is he eligible to receive disability benefits?

A. This depends on the amount of work he actually does. If it is not considered substantial he may be eligible for disability benefits and still continue to receive his full salary. By all means, contact your social security office immediately and make application for benefits.

Q. I'll be retiring soon and I plan to apply for social security benefits. My birth certificate doesn't show my name, just "male." Is this acceptable?

A. No. Supporting proof is needed, a baptismal certificate, an early school record, or the like. Your social security office can advise you.

Q. My wife died in 1953. Two of our children, ages 19 and 21 are in college. I have remarried and make over $10,000 a year. A friend told me the children could receive benefits on her record. Is this so?

A. Your friend is correct—if your wife worked at least 1 1/2 years under the social security program and the children have

Kiwanis Club Begins Operation Drug Alert

The Kiwanis Club of West Springfield-Agawam will begin a program of drug-abuse education, according to Lyman McKenzie, president of the club. The program, which is directed to the community in general, but ultimately to those in the upper elementary through high school who have not yet been confronted with an option of voluntary drug use, is called "Operation Drug Alert."

The Club has appointed a co-ordinating committee for the Operation Drug Alert program. Chairman for the committee is Joseph Koneski. He and the members of the committee, Charles Knudson and Gerald Drewes, will undertake a self-education program on the extent and seriousness of drug abuse in general, and in the community in particular. Then, an action program will be set up to provide a system of drug abuse education for the community itself.

The Operation Drug Alert program is a flexible one and, in communities where a problem of drug abuse is not a serious one, will be used as a preventive-educational measure. Each of the Kiwanis clubs across the continent will operate in much the same way, with variations in its action program depending on the community need.

The Operation Drug Alert plan has been reviewed by the American Medical Association, the American Pharmaceutical Association, the National Association of Retail Druggists, and the National Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse Education and Information, among others. Advice and counsel have been sought from these and other related organizations as well as from other associations whose members are interested in the problem.
